

Floods, Floodplains & California Water Workshop

The California Department of Water Resources, Yolo Basin Foundation, California Department of Fish & Wildlife, and California Project WET invite veteran Project WET educators to a flood-focused advanced Project WET workshop and field experience.

Join us to learn about the multiple benefits the Yolo Basin floodplain provides for wildlife, agriculture, and the important role the Yolo Bypass plays in providing flood protection for communities in the region. We'll hear from content experts about projects designed to reconnect floodplain habitat in the Yolo Bypass to improve passage for migrating salmon and climate resiliency, along with the challenges and benefits of farming and managing wildlife in the Yolo Basin.

For a $25 registration fee, participants will receive a copy of Project WET's new 'Foundations of Water Literacy' guide, a light breakfast and lunch, an introduction to the education programs offered by the Yolo Basin Foundation, an opportunity to receive CEU credit - and a $100 stipend provided following completion of the training!
